

Learning in your second language

Land acknowledgment

McGill is located on the unceded Indigenous lands of the Kanien'kehá:ka Nation, known as Tiohtià:ke/Montreal. The Kanien'kehá:ka are one of the nations that make up the Haudenosaunee Confederacy on Turtle Island/North America. Our goal is to promote learning and generate allyship with local Indigenous communities, by honouring and respecting the many nations removed from, as well as those still connected to this land. Throughout the workshop we encourage you to reflect on how colonial languages structure various economic, social, and political structures in Canada. If the land acknowledgment is new to you, we encourage you to learn more through resources like Native Land, McGill Indigenous Initiatives' The Land and People and Indigenous Education Resources

Session description and outcomes

This one-hour workshop will introduce you to some strategies for gaining confidence in English-speaking environments. The facilitators will also outline tips you can employ to develop a higher understanding of the content in your courses.

Space for your notes

Resources

The McGill Buddy Program can help you transition to life at McGill and in Montreal.